The idea behind this one is very simple - breaking free from the "conventional" blues-rock string bending! Listen closely for the phrasing and intonation of each note - the idea is to emulate what singers or slide players would do, while still retaining the power and the general vibe of rock guitar playing.

As you can see, I'm combining the string bends with slides into / out from notes, which helps to create the desired effect. Just be aware and use it tastefully (or go nuts, it's your call! :D)

Have fun!
